This was a short but really sweet story James and Calvin were both very likable characters They had amazing chemistry and were very cute together They both had crushes on the other person and there were a couple of issues But overall it was a nice sweet read I highly recommend this book Overall book rating 3.8 Audio Book N A Book Cover 3.5 What can I say I'm on a roll with the short reads These are the things that keep you going when you can't find the time to properly sit your butt down and pay attention over a span of pages It hit the spot I enjoyed it and I liked the two MC's James and his hot doctor Calvin Boys who put the ambulance to use in a naughty way LOL I liked the shy thing about James, it sometimes hits my buttons and this was one of those moments. @Free Ebook ? Running Hot (EMS Heat, #1) Ü A Thrill Of Excitement Always Went Through Paramedic James Willson Whenever He Transported A Patient To St Michael S Hospital, But It Had Nothing To Do With The Rush Of The Job It Was One Of The Emergency Department Doctors That Set His Heart Racing The Very Sexy, Very Aloof Calvin Dane 3.5 Stars Ooh, yeah, that hit the spot. James is a paramedic Calvin is a doctor They've been secretly pining for one another since Calvin started working at St Michael's Hospital six months earlier, but neither man is really aware that the other is also interested until a patient drop off culminates in a bit of mutual eye fucking Encouraged, Calvin works up the nerve to approach James in the back of his ambulance What was meant to be a friendly conversation between the two quickly turns into some shameless flirting, a bit of inappropriate but well received groping and, eventually, a scorching hot night together that changes everything I devoured this novella in one sitting I was thoroughly entertained and I immediately liked both characters immensely It's always a shame when this is the case, yet the story is so short I could have happily read about these two over the course of a full length novel but we can't have it all I'm looking forward to reading stories in the EMS Heat series if they are anything like this first offering, then I won't be disappointed. 3.5 Stars I like Stephani Hecht's stories e.g., the Lost Shifter series My only gripe, generally, is the length of her books This book was no exception I enjoyed both James and Calvin I liked their cautious flirtation and watching their attraction build But the story ended so abruptly I would have liked reading about their budding relationship Instead we went from okay, let's give this a try to the epilogue wherein they're living together That's 1/2 a book that happened off page, IMHO. Bottom line Interesting series and I liked this couple but the book didn't have enough real estate to justify the price. 3.6 Stars Not bad at all kind of had a gay 3rd Watch Grey's Anatomy feel to it And pretty well written, with some decent characterization given the shorter length I can't deny that I wish there'd been to the story, but it was quite enjoyable as is Definitely enough to have me adding the next one to the TBR, even if it IS a different couple. This book was okay, a little short but the plot worked its way along and the characters were likable My biggest complaint as it usually is was the editing How a book gets out there with such bad typos, the completely wrong words such as dreadful punctuation is a mystery it really detracts me from the story. great feel good read sexy and very sincere MC's lots of attraction, a touch of humor, a little bit of drama and paced very well for a short story. a definite must read when you want 2 hours of good writing with sexy hot men with a happy ending umm, no pun i swear Stephani Hecht's EMS themed novella Running Hot is well scorching hot. Shy paramedic James Wilson has been crushing on the sexy Dr Calvin Dane since the instant their eyes first met across the crowded emergency room at St Michael's Hospital. James wants to get to know Calvin better, but the good doctor's coolly professional manner has James afraid that the feelings he's experiencing aren't mutual. Little does he realize that Calvin's been eyeing him for months like Ben Jerry's just announced they were going to stop making ice cream and James was the last pint on the shelf. Yuuummmmm. Thankfully, Dr Feelgood's a little bolder than our sweet paramedic and a steamy encounter in the back of an ambulance leads to night neither of the men will ever forget. I thought this story was sweet, sexy, and surprisingly funny basically everything you could ever want in a novella. Both of the main characters were great. James was sweet, caring, brave, and a just little insecure. I found his seeming unawareness of his hotness incredibly sexy, and his tendency to ramble when nervous beyond adorkable. Really, what's not to love about a buff nerd whose life's ambition is to take care of other people. Nothing. That's what. As for Calvin. The man made me swoon. Hard. I loved how aggressive and honest he was. It may have taken him a couple of months to work his way up to making a move on James, but once he did LOOK OUT. He went from zero to Oops. Is that my hand on your cock in about 3.5 seconds and made me a happy, happy girl in the process. But the best part of his character for me was his willingness to lay his heart on the line for James. I'm going to make sure that you're so satisfied and cared for that you're going to be too happy to worry. Maybe if I do that long enough, you'll realize there is no way I can ever give you up. Not after I've known how right it is to be with you. Are you friggin kidding me. Why is it that only fictional men talk like this. If a guy said something like that to me, my panties would be on his bedroom floor so fast your head would spin. And just when I thought this novella was going to be a sweet little romp that progressed nicely from groping, to a rockin one night stand, to full blown relationship status and a HEA, Hecht threw me a curve ball with the action. I actually got goose bumps. For real. It was short, but oh so satisfying. Verdict. This sexy little novella left me jumping up and down screaming, I want to play doctor.
